Why are the same teams winning every time if its so bad? Surely the conditions at this lan are similar for every competitor.

Fair enough if you lose you get ped off but maybe sometimes people blame the tools without good cause.

I mean if they were so bad why did i-es win, surely some random could of just ran in and won?

My point im trying to make is how can there be consistent results if the environment in which they are being played is inconsistent.

i think on a superficial level the lan was great, nice arrangement, i liked the flatscreens above I-eS etc, the HLTV area was kinda cool.

altho i can relate to the subtle problems. XP sucks for games, HLTV sucks when there is less gamma than quake1, computers that f up suck.

but i really enjoyed the final, esp "that" awp shot...

i think considering the environment, there isnt much more that sujoy couldve done to make the event a success. UK just sucks for esports.

Last 2 times you've had a man replaced at the very last minute so im sure with better preperation you'll get those extra rounds which you need (was only 1 in the first game, 2/3 in the second to get the wins).

[Comment: Report IP: Logged]
	Nick^ 02:17 7/10/2002	I'd just to gloat a bit to Greg who said that just like every other LAN he'd been to everything would be fine and that they'd have no problems. How ironic Marc's PC was broken for like 20 minutes, and the fact that the admin said

"are you ready? i assume you are" and "2 rr then go!" when he clearly wasn't in the server. It took Doug to say "HES HAVING PC PROBLEMS FFS" to get the message through.

You're just lucky they didn't start 4 on 5 which happened to a lot of other clans. Would have made it extremely interesting...

Also Marc's hat = teh sex.

XP's fine as and all this you need time to adjust to it is bs..... at gdoc id never played on xp until then and after a very short period of playing on it (like about 2 mins) things felt the same. People shouldnt blame slack performances on an operating system and start looking at playing on default.... default cfg's pld all

gl i-es and ul one you played v.well

theres not much to adjust to at all. the only thing which you need to sort out is your mouse sensitivity as it is greatly increased in xp. so on your home computer check your windows sens, then on your normal in game sens move from 1 side of the mousemat to the other side and record how many degrees you turn. once you get to the lan make sure the windows sens is the same as it is at home and then do the same thing in game, going from one side of the mat to the other and adjust the in game sensitivity accordingly so that you do the exact same degrees as you do at home. thats all there is to it :) [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

	FELLA 11:44 7/10/2002	Well they used XP at GDOC and for me and my Boomslang 2000 it was screwed. First off there are no official Boomslang 2000 XP Drivers, so I had to use the generic ones and tick the box that says they "may not be comaptible do you wish to install" (or something). When playing I noticed my smaller movements were samller than normal, but my large movements were larger ... hmmm not good which resulted in me doing a 360 turn rather than a 180 turn after throwing a flashbang and trying to look away. I tried to adjust to it but playing vs. some of the best UK clans it's hard enough as it is. XP sux it you are not used to it FACT. Deeean you asked why I-es are the most consistent despite LAN's being inconsistent. Simple they attend more LANs than the others. Let me give you an analogy. Say you are used to drving a Ford Focus, maybe even ford cars in general ... you'd find a Vauxhall strange to drive. However if you are used to driving various types of cars, Fords/Vauxhalls/Hondas/Nissans/Citroens etc. then you will find getting into a strange car easier to adjust too.

Infinity-eSports Win WCG UK

Posted by NoToRiOuS at 16:57 6/10/2002.

After an exciting day of adrenaline pumping CS, Infinity-eSports come away winners of WCG UK CS Qualifier. The final match between I-eS and ONE finished 13 - 9. As I understand I-eS walk away with an 8 day trip for 5 to Korea for the WCG Championships to represent UK and 5 Samsung Digital Cameras.

Congrats to I-eS and commiserations to ONE who have come a long way. I'm sure they will be back. GL to I-eS in Korea!

Baby_Joker VR 12:01 8/10/2002	Most of the staff came from vga centres. Except for Myers and Paul. If people want to complain they clearly have no idea what it takes to organise such an event. People moaning about pc's: The pc's were supplied by a sponser as no one had the money to go buy 70 high spec pc's, so they chose the os.

People moaning about Staff: We worked 5 12hr days and didnt get paid a penny so shut up or we wont do it again and there will be no big events.

People moaning about noise: if the wcg wasnt held at Stuff Live 2002 the media wouldnt be interested so there is no point doing it. people want to be pro gamers and without the media that wont happen.

From what i saw most people had a good time and toomy shut up moaning the vga paid for you to stay in a hotel go out and get ped and have a meal thats what made you miss. Well played to all that took part and lets hope next year is bigger and better.

I'd rather have no LAN than a lame & biased event that the UK WCG appears to have been. So what if you don't get paid a penny ... no-ones forcing you to do it either. So you stop the fing whining. When such top prizes are on offer you expect there to a certain level of professionalism and no bias, which this has certainly lacked from the number of complaints I've read. The admins should at least know how the game works and what settings you can reasonably change.

Fella, sadly, u must of missed the several posts that did say the lan was good. Also as you well know UKT is where ppl come to moan. The people that said the LAN was poo are just a couple of ppl ped about one or 2 matters. Obviously LANS are never going to go perfectly and one or 2 matters will always arise which will annoy people.

As for not taking a condescending tone....well point those 3 fingers back at yaself m8 when u re-read this sentence "don't take that condescending tone with me boy". Is that not condescending to me?

"I've been to enough of LAN's to know when people are telling the truth"...uh huh?...really?...Well tell me how u can know when ppl are telling the truth when they're only telling one point of view. Anyone knows there's 2 sides to every argument and perhaps u should listen to both of them before u make up your mind?.

"What makes you think I was talking about 'your' team ... ahem I mean neutral I-es ... ? Jumping to conclusions or a sign of guilt." - This is classic...i never mentioned infinity-esports. True i was referring to a previous post but u seem to of caught yaself in ur own trap here by stating that u do mean infinity-esports. Cos i know i didn't mention them.

It bugs me that ur claiming this lan was s without actually being at the event yourself? (wonder why?). Surely it would be better to make up your own mind.

Yeh it doesn't matter about the 'few' people moaning 'cos they are in no way associated with I-es and so therefore they don't have a valid opinion. If you don't like people moaning on UKT then stop them ... it's your site innit ? Otherwise stop moaning about the moaners.

The condescending tone ... er perhaps you missed the sarcasm there Myers ? Or do I really have to join the gay bandwagon and put [sarcasm] ... [/sarcasm] around it ?

I have read all the comments good and bad so therefore I do have 'both' sides of the story, and like I said approx. 80% of them have been bad ... therefore my conclusion stands.

No I didn't catch myself out I knew you was inferring about I-es so therefore I was correct that you are paranoid/guilty. In fact I have read numerous comments of bias/inconsistencies/preferential treatment ... dress it up how you want it it's still lame.

Why wasn't I there ... 'cos I couldn't be arsed travelling 5 hours there to play maybe a couple of games to get knocked out then 5 hours back, to have to deal with all the se mentioned in the comments and most of all 'cos I can't stand your greasy face. baby joker, u really are a comedian who the f cares if ure paid or not to do something, when ure not actually doing anything that ure supposed to do, from the competitors views, <at least on the saturday i wasnt there for the sunday...> the admins rarely knew anything about cs commands etc, didnt know about xp settings & mouseaccel, didnt even bother to watch the games they were meant to be "admining" and making sure everything was fair, and were rarely of any help to the players from what i saw, now whether ur fing paid to do absolutely nothing for the players or not ure not doing what ure supposed to be doing so dont try and get all soppy IT WAS VOLUNTEER WORK SO STOP MOANING OR ILL CRY when ure not even doing the work _from the players point of view_ and lets face it, there would be no event if there werent the players to be in it, whereas there would prolly easily be another 10 "volunteers" to find to do the "admining" as 'well' as u did and a lot better. i saw like 1 good admin who was actually helpful to everyone, unfortunately i dont know who he was, and there was another guy who at least TRIED by bothering to watch all his games carefully and watch what the players were doing (if they bought console down etc) even though he did overreact quite a bit and still couldnt help with XP problems at least he bothered trying to do most of his "volunteer" job.

sorry if it seems a bad tone but ur post was just as arrogant and ignorant as half of the posts here.

and its not neccessarily the OS people are meaning to moan about, its the fact that v few of the admins knew how to take off mouse accel PROPERLY which they should all have known, which could have solved all this fuss easily.

btw myers, "BIAS" isnt the right word, it was more just random slack admining that meant some people got away with doing stuff that other people got warned/disqualified for.

and baby, u moan about everyone wanting cs to go pro so put up with the s event, well how is this sport meant to go pro when players are being put off every single event that happens when theres s admining or pc problems and no one cares to help or can help. its like having football played with a 78 year old shortsighted referee who doesnt know half the rules and no lines men.

i dont wanna seem like having a complete go at the admins, but if myers is so sure of himself to doing a wonderful job (which might have been good from his own point of view but definately not from the majority of actual players attending) and babyboys gonna post being arrogant then whatever. why not just say "ok thanks for bringing this to our attention we'll try and make sure it doesnt happen again" instead of posting "f off u moaning tts we are always right we didnt do anything wrong and we dont give a s what u think" because thats the impression u give. its no good having a football referee that only talks french if all ur players are russian and theres no translater ?

Stop being such an arrogant fwit. Nobody /asked/ you to go, volunteer means you did it of your own accord. You get into this s when you're out of your depth and don't know what the f you're doing. As long as there'll be games which are popular there'll be big UK LANs, and they've been going for years without the involvement of the VGA. I'd love to see you get over 1,000 to BYOC like i10 did.

And FYI almost all of the people who went couldn't give a flying f about 'pro-gaming' - how many are thinking about making it a career? Ooh, a quick check of hands and it's, er, no one. People go to LANs to socialise, to play a game they love, to try and win, to uphold their reputation/create one, to be friendly, to make new friends, and generally get smashed off their faces and have fun. People don't go for media coverage. If you were actually too busy dealing with stupid dick PR/Media people maybe you'd have run a decent LAN.

He's right, the loud noise was impossible to avoid cos we had to hold the event in a place that would draw over 50,000 ppl. Otherwise samsung would not have sponsored the event and there would have been no event.

The thing that gets me is that pretty much EVERY SINGLE major LAN in the UK has had these problems or similar, and EVERY TIME people complain afterwards, and EVERY TIME the ppl running it say 'well these things happen' and then do f all to stop it happening again.

I swear the people that run these events think that by putting in 80% effort they get a magical sign that states 'well we put in a load of work so stop moaning' and that saying this makes everything ok. You don't want ppl to man, then you damn well work harder to fix the problems, problems that happen time and time again, with the same damn problems and the same stock excuses.

I refer you to that famous quote: "If a jobs worth doing, its worth doing well. If its not worth doing, give it to myers"

Thats a joke now myers, don't take it too personally now and have you fall and break a hip or something.

The comment from baby_something was uncalled for, and someone part of a successful company shouldnt be slagging off people who they want to come play at their venues, and at their events. Also Myers your may have thought it went well, and yes i bet theres also quite a few people who thought it went well, but deep down if someone from ui/ONE/Ies (this is not against them) had done what TT did, the admin "huddle" would have lasted 2 secs, and no punishment would have been done.

Also in the final when Liq was having comp problems the admin was saying in rcon the wrong things. When ies with 4 players didnt reply to the "are you ready?", he said, "buy that no answer i take it as a yes", he had asked them 3 times before then, and they said no, then he moaned about the tight schedule they have, surely anyone with half a braincell wouldnt be saying those things, when he can see theres only 4 people in the server.

And shads comment about having fun, and taking part not expecting to win, was so true, people had to pay money to enter the event, so when things didnt run smoothly, and there are problems, or being dq'd in the 1st game, u can see why they are pretty ped off. They didnt get in for free.

the cpl as u well know recently recieved a $40 grant...

they approached the vga and asked them to run the uk cpl quals again...vga said ok but as long as the cpl paid for the winner to goto the U.S. considering this is how the other 2 european quals are working...the cpl said no..

Posted by NoToRiOuS at 16:57 6/10/2002.

After an exciting day of adrenaline pumping CS, Infinity-eSports come away winners of WCG UK CS Qualifier. The final match between I-eS and ONE finished 13 - 9. As I understand I-eS walk away with an 8 day trip for 5 to Korea for the WCG Championships to represent UK and 5 Samsung Digital Cameras.

Congrats to I-eS and commiserations to ONE who have come a long way. I'm sure they will be back. GL to I-eS in Korea!

"I can see many people's points on here and i am putting forward to the vga that for the next bg tourney that there is polls on all the things such as os etc. If this helps in anyway."

also i think we some experienced players as admins next time (no offence to the admins, im sure they r more busy running their LAN centres than playing cs 24/7 like many of us))

i'd certainly have helped out voluntarily if i could hitch a ride down to the big smoke that...

	I mean when someone comes up to u and goes 'my bullets arent registering...fix it!' what can u seriously do?...check their rates?, check the server and then tell em to play the soddin game. Or the best one i heard at this event "i can't run as fast as everyone else"...now...what can an admin seriously do?...just tell em to start the soddin game :) [Comment: Report IP: Logged]
FELLA 09:24 9/10/2002	m0rph I've already explained why i-es win all the time in an earlier post on this thread ... I used a car analogy ... you know like why your mum always takes her knickers off when she gets in the back of a car ... force of habit mate. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Landen Point Five-O 10:58 9/10/2002	I havent read all the comments dont have time.(At uni) But I was at the WCG so gonna give my views. Basically Poor, when our team (Protocol from Cardiff Equest) qualified we were told a bus had been booked to take us to London on time. We thought great all travel sorted np. Turn up on the Friday night for a pracky to find out, no, the VGA couldnt get a bus so we have one night to plan our own way down there. So got up at 6am Saturday morning got a coach from Cardiff to London at 17quid each for a return. Find Earls court, go in find we have to pay another 13quid each to get into "Stuff Live". Get there for around 12pm like we were told to 'come back at 1pm; came back at 1pm told to 'come back at 1:30pm'. So we go grab some food comeback at

1:15pm and luckily hear a final call for Protocol. - What happened to 1:30pm?

Earlier on when we got there we were told, by Myers, the first map was Aztec so we prepared for Aztec. We sit down at our PCs being rushed the entire time by a ref, flustered, we quickly setup. Before we were ready they say 2rr and go. Then we find out it was Cobble not Aztec. We explain to the ref Myers told us it was Aztec, he said nope, it restarts- he says 'go'. So we're f*cked basically. Still manage to win the first 3 rounds as CTs and win the half 5-3. Win the T pistol round too taking us 6-3 then ui won their eco round, helped greatly by some tking by Protocol. That lost us the game basically.

Anyway, the venue was s, tons of people around shouting, people dancing, music pumping, TVs going and god knows what else. Impossible to concentrate. PC setup was pants, couldnt hear my teammates footsteps when running next to me, nevermind the other team. Wasnt given enough time to sort out my mouse so had to play with sty acceleration.

Then to top it off, theres no record anywhere that we were actually in the Tourny. WCG site says UI played rebirth in the first round and won 9-0. Which is complete bulls, they played protocol and won 9-6, luckily.

Ive been told that our travel costs will be paid for by the VGA but i doubt that will happen going off how the actual Tourny was run.

Im grateful of the work people have done to run the WCG, could of been good. But to be frank, for us it wasnt. Paid god knows how much to get down to London and to get into the actual venue to be screwed over in our first game. Then not even be recognised as being there in the first place. Not on.

Me thinks there were too many qualifiers, too many clans there, too much going on. Why not run it like CPL, regional winners go to national final, winner of that goes to CPL final. Simple, easy, fast. Not Regional qualifiers, online qualifiers, Saturday Morning qualifiers, Saturday Afternoon Qualifiers. Too much in too little time. imo.

"also to just clear this up a bit.. saturday was fine after mouse accel was fixed, pc's were good, bullets hit fine, i was lookin forward to sunday.

we were put on different pc's on sunday, erm had been on them and we only found out half way through the tourney they had changed the cfg's, put read only one's on and changed rates n interp."

Bom
I didnt get to finish the comments as i saw this.
Not one erm player changed rates etc. I infact asked an admin to check mine b4 a game as console was active & the cmdrate was already changed to 101. That was the only pc i played on where rates had been changed.
Lots of clans played on those pcs b4 us so it could have been any1. Console should not be active at lans, saves a lot of accusations & tempting people to cheat.
Toomy ur a pleb when you come out with comments like that, i cant b arsed giving you the benefit of the doubt like many people deserve .

You lost because you werent good enough same as us.
Infact i was total pants on sunday (many excuses at the ready) but i dont go looking to blame anything bar myself & i certainly dont start throwing my dummy out the pram & slag off other clans.

also we didnt accuse you of using different rates, we just noticed that a lot of you had higher pings, normally that would b due to higher rates, so we wanted an admin to check as it could have been done well b4 u got anywhere near those pcs by a diff clan. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

	Landen^ 10:38 10/10/2002	Alright lukey dunno, about i14 yet, distinct lack of money atm. Well none infact, well less than none, specifically £600 less than none. :] So not too sure i can afford and travelling will be hard, need to speak to bangers.

Yer as i said,WCG was a tad pants. Travelled a long way and paid a lot of money to play one CS game mr8 (lol). And got screwed over in that one game.

We only had 4 of our actual team there, Silicon bottled it and let us down and our other player, kronic whose prolly our best player atm, got hammered on the friday night so couldnt make the saturday. Had to merc a random spectator. :/. Only our second set of matches together as a team too, so was kinda pleased to give UI a little scare. :] I played se as Ts good as CTs though. We didnt praccy or haveany tactics before we went either. We some work we could do ok in CPL, watch out for us. 🗺️:P Ah well, best go sports coaching to go to now :s.

just 1 question, didnt WCG computers have MS mice?!? from the picture i seen they did.. Surely just installing the MS eye drivers solves the mouse acceleration?

I could be wrong :E
