UKT Lan #3 - Final Standings

Posted by Ripper at 00:35 1/6/2003.

Here are the final standings after a day of gruelling action down at the IT-Centre:

- 1st - 4Kings (12)
- 2nd - ONE (8)
- 3rd - fightclubclan (6)
- 4th - Xtra.uk (5)
- 5th - Kirby-eSports.uk & tR (4)
- 7th - SCEE & Conclusive (3)
- 9th - aG, Pro, OJS, fl.e (2)
- 13th - O:i, GltC, uninspired (1)

Well played to 4K for proving their dominance of the UK scene yet again, and commiserations to ONE as they put up such a good show. Shouts go out to fcc, AdY and w1cked for silencing a few doubters of their LAN ability. All in all it was a smoothly run tournament, look out for information on UKT #4 soon.

Looked like a good tournament, everyone seemed to play well in at least one match (well... almost ;-)), Xtra/fcc both pld extremely well earning those positions, consistent throughout, Kirby pld well for essentially what was a mixteam, with O'Gee proving he can do his s on LAN, what else?...

OJS showed in parts their individual skills but obv. without practise of other clans the TP wasnt there, Geordie was LAN hero as always :-)

And 4K being 4K. Of course. Thanks go to Righteous for proving a certain prediction to a certain friend correct (a good one ;-)).

Can laugh as much as you want Simmo, but if uninspired took it as seriously as 4K/ONE/omg! they would be capable of some real damage and some upsets.

4K definately had a hard team, Xtra took em to their limits and conclusive put up a very good fight as CT on dust2. Conclusive need to polish their T half on dust2 though.

Very good event. Unfortunately we didn't have much of an opportunity to perform on the day. The 4k match was just too hard and SCEE totally outplayed us. WP to FCC and Pro who both had a good day.
Stood behind both clans at points during the day and both looks impressive. Head Shot Man is the most laid back CS player I have ever seen. They thought they were gonna be leaving a lot sooner than they did. Pro's game vs ONE was quite amusing to watch.
Flavas was particularly impressive during that game.

Anyway to all the people who have probably flamed us in the other threads. We did played the best clan in the UK and to a quality clan (SCEE) who were clearly on form, coming close to beating ONE. Good event and hopefully we can get to the next one and redeem ourselves.

I especially enjoyed the coin toss with DK.

Yeh was a really good event, shame about the heat and dark0rs BO.

We knew we wouldnt win against 4k, so we practiced so hard on dust2 only to get a default win on the map. We had some very basic train taccys, but was clearly outclassed by a strong SCEE team. Kinda funny yet annoying in that match vs SCEE at how i couldnt walk, jump, switch weapon and in a 1on1 at the end my fire button wouldnt work :(

Some very nice lads there got to meet a few top peeps, hopefully we'll get accepted for the next lan where we will practice alot harder.

Good job myers and the rest of the UKT staff for sorting it, top event.

P.S. get xp on the systems, fing hate 98 can never find a decent sensitivity :(

well ive just got in, Dom kicked us out of the Lan centre at 12, cos we wouldnt pay the 7.50 to watch till our train came at 6, and he said its 20 quid to pay and play, got to the station and the trains had been cancelled back to London so we had to wait at northampton station till 2 then some taxi's came to get everyone, went to London Euston and had to sleep on the benches outside till 6 in the morning, tube wasnt Open so had to get a taxi to victoria by some weird guy who wasnt even a taxi driver, Dark0r is still missing in his cab.....
sat asleep on another bench in victoria till 8 when the train finally came. was an ok Lan the heat was fing silly, and we played well bad..4k deffo deserved everything they had both maps locked down, SCEE was a surprise [SCEE]m0rph? :P wp all teams nice to meet some people 2..cya next time, [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Carb theb0g 11:25 1/6/2003	WILL these little bhes stop complaining about Windows 98? Jesus Christ it's not hard to find a sens in 98....all you gotta do is play with it on your own PC for a time, find your sens make a mental note of it and then at every LAN that has 98 you KNOW your fing sens. It's not a bad OS it's just people feel they can use it as an excuse "My sens was all wrong", "98 Crashes so often", "I couldn't set my mouse up" or whatever the f the latest excuse is. Use all OSs find your sens in each and stop moaning. I used Windows 98SE for about 5 years of gaming and it was fine and never crashed in games for me. I know my sens in every OS that gets used at LAN tournaments and use the OS that no LAN will ever adopt for some unknown reason. Win 2K Pro should be the standard....no mouse accel issues a la XP, rarely crashes a la 98 (debateable) and is generally a sweet OS. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

lol carb...

"Jesus Christ it's not hard to find a sens in 98....all you gotta do is play with it on your own PC for a time, find your sens make a mental note of it and then at every LAN that has 98 you KNOW your fing sens."

Thats my point... i play with xp not 98, im hardly gonna reformat or get another pc and put 98 on it for the lan, was complaining just couldnt get the right

UKT Lan #3 - Final Standings

Posted by Ripper at 00:35 1/6/2003.

Here are the final standings after a day of gruelling action down at the IT-Centre:

- 1st - 4Kings (12)
- 2nd - ONE (8)
- 3rd - fightclubclan (6)
- 4th - Xtra.uk (5)
- 5th - Kirby-eSports.uk & tR (4)
- 7th - SCEE & Conclusive (3)
- 9th - aG, Pro, OJS, fl.e (2)
- 13th - O:i, GltC, uninspired (1)

Well played to 4K for proving their dominance of the UK scene yet again, and commiserations to ONE as they put up such a good show. Shouts go out to fcc, AdY and w1cked for silencing a few doubters of their LAN ability. All in all it was a smoothly run tournament, look out for information on UKT #4 soon.

All I am saying Monty is that people instead of whining about an OS they don't use could spend time using that OS, finding their sens / whatever, and then go back to their favourite OS. Personally I find people that whine about OSs after LANs (either having performed well or badly) when they have had every opportunity to adapt by playing on the OS in question in their own time (not like there aren't any copies of 98 floating around or anything...) particularly annoying.

Instead of whining these people could spend their time actually making use of it and saying to themselves "Hey maybe if I just use it for one weekend on dual boot I could get used to it and know my settings for future reference", but then again that would be sensible wouldn't it.

With respect to Demo, I am only offensive towards people that

a) I don't like particularly e.g. You

b) People I don't know who shout down a comment I make which made perfect sense. e.g. Monty Monty I didn't mean to be harsh to you, infact I have no reason to be. But I was stating the point that people could just experiment with different OSs instead of going to a LAN with an OS that won't be used there as their only knowledge of playing games.

toodle pip.

I am also not really a geek, I picked the name Carbonite because I liked it, f all to do with Star Wars. Also Carbonite has other connotations if you actually look it up. But then again I don't have to justify myself to you. And as for not having a life....yeah cos everyone at uni sits in their rooms all the time. No one at my uni ever goes out, we're all like vampires and only go out at night when there's no sun. Hence the REALLY white skin. Honestly I don't care what you have to say. I go out at least 3 times every week, less so recently cos I blew my student loan buying a PS2 and a new graphics card that doesn't actually work properly. I'm off to the beach shortly anyway. See you later geek. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Dom ITC 15:39 1/6/2003	One Strikes wrote :- [i]well ive just got in, Dom kicked us out of the Lan centre at 12, cos we wouldnt pay the 7.50 to watch till our train came at 6, and he said its 20 quid to pay and play,[/i] I'm sorry mate, but you guys where fully aware of the pricing for the night time session well in advance of when you were due to leave. Someone approached me at about 9 or 9:30pm and explained your clans situation etc... that you knew you would have to be playing late as you were in the final but it would mean missing the last train, so he asked me how much it would be to stay. As mentioned, £20.00 for the all-nighter and £7.50 if people just wanted to spectate / crash there overnight. Don't think I don't appreciate how utter crap Silverlink are for train services, as I used to commute for 4+ hours a day on them, but at the end of the day, you guys paid to play in the CS comp, and not to stay all night. There where 15 people there who did pay to play all night, what was I supposed to tell them? Ohh well, you have to pay 20 quid, but these guys don't because they have been here all day...? I did get angry when I started getting bl33ted at 'your kicking us out on the street etc..' I coud understand that if you hadn't been aware of the situation but that wasn't the case at all ... As for other feedback about the event ... Yes we are aware how hot it was, and we can only apologise for that. Given that yesterday was the hottest day of the year up till now, I think you can all appreciate that on the day there wasn't allot we could do about it.

	We are planning to get some proper air con units in place for next time, so hopefully it won't be an issue for future events. Chairs: We don't get complaints from our regular customers or people who stay for the All-Nighters about the chairs so I'm afraid they'll be staying for the time being. For the next LAN, if anyone seriously finds them uncomfortable then I'll do my best to sort you out an alternative. If anyone else has any constructive criticism of how we can improve the event for next time, then feel free to post here, or mail me on : dominic@the-itcentre.com and we'll take your suggestions on board for the future. UKT Lan #3 - Final Standings

Posted by Ripper at 00:35 1/6/2003.

Here are the final standings after a day of gruelling action down at the IT-Centre:

- 1st - 4Kings (12)
- 2nd - ONE (8)
- 3rd - fightclubclan (6)
- 4th - Xtra.uk (5)
- 5th - Kirby-eSports.uk & tR (4)
- 7th - SCEE & Conclusive (3)
- 9th - aG, Pro, OJS, fl.e (2)
- 13th - O:i, GltC, uninspired (1)

Well played to 4K for proving their dominance of the UK scene yet again, and commiserations to ONE as they put up such a good show. Shouts go out to fcc, AdY and w1cked for silencing a few doubters of their LAN ability. All in all it was a smoothly run tournament, look out for information on UKT #4 soon.

Dom ITC 19:16 1/6/2003	Yes the 'choke' issue can be solved, but not that easily from my POV. We have lan licences for more copies of HL than we need for the weekend, but we don't have that many online licences. We have 20 online keys, since that's all we need normally for our gaming room. As soon as you set sv_lan to 0 which pretty much sorts the choke out, the individual clients try to auth with WON. There are some ways round this, but not all easy or quick to implement. Teppum had some idea's on how to sort it, but there wasn't enough time to get it sorted before the event. Someone remind me about a week before the next LAN and I'll look into it again then. Acolyte's first LAN and he played really well (keep 'em coming Mr & Mrs Bourke), also Kid's first LAN and he played equally well.

Hopefully we can iron out the creases for the next one and put up more of a fight. There were glimpses of greatness but mainly poor preparation did indeed lead to p poor performance :) .

Regarding the whole getting chucked out at 1.30am from ITC. I wasn't aware there was a charge for staying overnight and I thought that the spectator fee covered the whole UKT LAN event (CS, UT2k3 and WC3 competitions). The first I heard of it is about 2 mins before they chucked us out when Dom announced there was an extra £7.50 charge for spectating or £20 to play overnight, fair enough if the others had heard but I hadnt and it was basically a "Pay up or guess what, you are sleeping out on the streets" scenario.

Im 22 and was ok walking through Northampton when drunkards were getting chucked out of clubs to my car and sleeping in it (I had given a lift to a UT2003 player so I had to wait for him). But some of those lads were only 16 and 17, just what the hell were you thinking?

But some of those lads were only 16 and 17, just what the hell were you thinking? ---- If some of the players are too young to take responsibility for themselves then they shoudln't be there in the first place, or they should have a parent or guardian present. Myers, the tournament organiser was still present, if you had a problem with the arrangements, that he made in advance (this includes informing the players of the pricing for all aspects of the event) then take it up with him. From the various stories I have read from the people who left at that point, they would seem to have spent a stack on taxis. They could have stayed all night for £7.50, crashed out, watched a DVD in the spectator room ... got straight onto a train in the morning, and saved a bunch of cash and also hassle by the sounds of it. Iccy 01:08 2/6/2003	What impression does it give for ITC, when people would rather put up with the hassle, than pay £7.50?

I had the money personally, but someone coming round and suddenly announcing an charge on top of what had already been paid smacks of milking money from kids. Would it have killed you to do a similar announcement during the day to let people know there would be an extra charge?

Taxis were free btw thank goodness. Its in the past now but will you guys please make sure that people are aware of the charges involved in the future, £7.50 for the night is a very good price but thats not my point. When people who think they are all paid up for the night and have budgeted accordingly are suddenly told to pay an extra charge or be thrown out on the streets then its not on.

UKT Lan #3 - Final Standings

Posted by Ripper at 00:35 1/6/2003.

Here are the final standings after a day of gruelling action down at the IT-Centre:

- 1st - 4Kings (12)
- 2nd - ONE (8)
- 3rd - fightclubclan (6)
- 4th - Xtra.uk (5)
- 5th - Kirby-eSports.uk & tR (4)
- 7th - SCEE & Conclusive (3)
- 9th - aG, Pro, OJS, fl.e (2)
- 13th - O:i, GltC, uninspired (1)

Well played to 4K for proving their dominance of the UK scene yet again, and commiserations to ONE as they put up such a good show. Shouts go out to fcc, AdY and w1cked for silencing a few doubters of their LAN ability. All in all it was a smoothly run tournament, look out for information on UKT #4 soon.

The £15 entry fee, has and always will be, for Counter-Strike tournament alone. If you can find any comment at all where it says the money was for anything other than just the CS tournament, then let me know if not then I fail to see how you budgeted for this. . The allnighter was not included. Dom was approached about this and informed the player it would be £7.50 to stay overnight.

If this player did not pass the information on to the rest of his team then that's not really the fault of the IT-Centre [Comment: Report IP: Logged] duck. Online Multiplayer Gaming 02:43 2/6/2003	#8? No that isnt me =] i was 1336-acidduck [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Crappy Super Breasts 04:13 2/6/2003	Dcc the demo :) And necro, go back to stretching Tarls anus as he sleeps. I'll go back to work when I'm good and ready. Ah, fck it, cba. Must be time for a Crappy Ian again :P But Jedi can FO if he thinks he's eating all my food and drinking all my beer and JD for 2 fkn weeks again :D [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Not really m8, is just that it's pretty hard work supporting an event like this. Spent most of Friday prepping till 1:30am, then was back there at 8am and worked through until 10:30pm, then was back on Sunday at 9am to help sort the 'aftermath' and believe me, there is allot to do after an event like this to get the place back to normal.

I had to be there in the heat as well ya know. :)
