OMG! Given WCG UK Wildcard

Posted by Myers at 15:23 5/8/2003.

OMG! have been given a wildcard straight to the finals of WCG UK. OMG! were given this wildcard as a result of their performance throughout the last year and high place finishes in both UK and foreign LAN events.

In the last year alone omg! have finished 3rd at Games Domain, 3rd at WCG UK Qualifiers, 3rd at Intel Masters, 1st at UKT2 and 2nd at UKT4 not to mention a good run at the recent Euskal CPL Qualifiers in Spain.

This wildcard means that omg! will not be qualifying through either the Game.Net online qualifiers or at one of the 17 iGames UK Qualifiers. Remember if you wish to take part in this year's WCG Pre-qualifiers then you must Register your team as soon as possible, signups close this Friday. The WCG UK Qualifiers are organised by iGames UK.

Wildcard means 'An athlete or team selected to compete in a tournament or playoff from among those who did not qualify by meeting the regular requirements.'
I ask again, do OMG! most deserve the wildcard? :P I think maybe WCG should consider rewording it :)

ye dave i too thought the same, i thought when i first read about the wildcards it was a great idea, but i also thought they were going to be used to invite the top 3 teams that failed to qualify for the main event for whatever reason. that in my opinion is the best way to use them and is in the true sense of the word "wild card"

Who was that guy who won Wimbledon the year before last? He recieved a wildcard so that he could enter the tournament because he didn't have any sponsors or such to compete. But they figured he might make 'some sort of impact'.

Needless to say, I agree with some people and think that wildcards shouldn't be given to any top seeded clan.

Atemi ForsakeN 11:01 6/8/2003	yes myers it does cos it makes igames seem a little uneducated by giving out wildcards when they dont even know wot the hell a wildcard means, but if thats how they wanna do it fair enuff, just seems utterly daft u give wildcards to proolly 2nd and 3rd best clans in UK when its blatantly obvious they would of qualified anyway, wildcards should of been kept for good teams who didnt qualify due to certain circumstances but maybe deserved to qualify becasue of past performances. who would the wildcard go to other then OMG! anyway? monkeymagic? they have played at 1 lan and barely beat an unpracticed omg! I cant see MM doing better at the next LAN, Vertakill was pure class at the last one, and unless he's poppin pills i doubt he will be that good every single lan he plays at.

omg! are the best team besides 4K, and ONE being second to that. It would be pointless making them qualify, cos they would just win there qualifiers and stop another reasonably good team going to the quals. Now shut up [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Otis Rush! 16:43 6/8/2003	thats not the point of a wildcard though rhyzz. Ppl arent saying it shouldnt be either one or omg, who get an autoberth if there are them, they are just saying that thats not how wildcards should be given :) [Comment: Report IP: Logged]
PHB 16:50 6/8/2003	Do you know how expensive trips are for some clans, espically if they have players who live far away. These costs should be spared if you have proven yourself already, so they won't have to go to a pre qual and wipe the floor. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]
Atemi ForsakeN 18:00 6/8/2003	all people are saying is that the wildcards have been used the wrong way, they should of just called them auto-berths. it could be seen as pedantic but you would think that between all the grown men who work for i-games, one of em would know the definition of "wildcard" and how they are used in sporting events similar to this.
