Clanbase Nations Cup V

Posted by Ripper at 09:28 7/10/2003.

The latest Clanbase Nations Cup has been announced and like every other campaign, the Team Captain selection process has begun. Here's the details if you're interested in being the captain of Team UK:

National captains:

Starting today, anyone who wants to become his/her country's national captain for one of the Nations Cups can apply for that job by doing the following:

- Make sure you have substantial support from your country's top clans and top players.
- Mail the supervisor of your Nations Cup (use the email(s) linked below the menu on each cup page!) with the following information:
- The subject must be "NC5: [country] captain", e.g. "NC5: Dutch captain"
- Start the email with your nickname, your clanname, your pid and your hid (the numbers on your player profile) on ClanBase.
- If your country has shaky internet connections: provide details of international online matches recently played by your local players/clans to demonstrate that you can field a competitive national team.
- If you only want to be captain if there are no other candidates (to make sure your country gets to participate), say so right away.
- No individual or organisation can appoint him/her/itself, and last season's captains have to apply again, so everyone who wants to be captain has to apply. The deadline for applying is Tuesday 14th October, so decide fast.

Like every other season, no doubt the UK will have 4 times as many applicants as any other country. I overheard Rhyzz talking about applying for captaincy yet again at the weekend so let's hope he can finally succeed after losing out last season.

After experiencing captaincy last season it wouldn't surprise me if clans follow 4K and not allow their players to compete. With the Eurocup and Opencup taking place at the same time clans will be pushed for time if their players

Chris0 01:22 8/10/2003	When it states international votes are important, isnt that international UK teams, ie CPL teams and EC teams etc? If u stand with Styla you've won cos of his aoL (YES fING A O L) rep, simple as that. Like when me and myers high-five beat DK, was due to our "4K Rep", even tho we deny that to p DK off. You really think that the different squads/maps/player form/teamplay has no bearing on your chances. CS is like any other team competitive activity. You have times when even the underdog has their chance, if they take it or not is another thing! That was definately our best chance of winning NC! [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

DK if myself or Myers had played or done tactics Team-UK would've reached the semis atleast, as u say, the underdogs could've had their moment.

Basically Liquid is Team-UK, calling tactics etc, i cant imagine Ripper called tactics or did a Team-UK training, well they did get taken out early, so maybe he did.
