UKTerrorist 4 Update and Spectator Information

Posted by Hotshot at 10:44 19/7/2003.

As most of you are aware, this weekend plays host to one of the most fast paced and exciting sporting events of the british calendar... Silverstone. Which coincides with UKT #4.

I've just received word that all the teams are in place and accusing each other of cheating, or rather warming up. This event's coverage, I'm afraid to say, is currently limited to internal HLTV only but all the games will be recorded and the demo's uploaded.

For those after a more aural treat, you can tune in to the Shoutcast feed which should be going live any moment now with that mix master Lewis at the helm.

The stream can be found here and requests sent to #warservers.radio which has been good enough to donate its services.

Carb theb0g 12:31 19/7/2003	Sluggeh FSAA and Anisotropic Filtering make a game look a hell of a lot better than it would normally. No blurry textures etc. I wouldn't play CS without 8x FSAA and 6x Aniso on if my graphics card supported it. The difference is huge. I never realised how ugly CS and other games are without the refinement that the two parameters offer up. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]
