DoZ Anti-saviour of UKT 14:14 23/2/2003		The machines with vsync on dropped fps when scoping into smoke ;-) The only problem I had was zoom_sensitivity seems to like resetting to default. DoZ Anti-saviour of UKT 14:26 23/2/2003		I think I might have to every time I leave a server, coz it always seemed to reset between matches. I'd go in and test it was right on some server then go onto proper one and it'd be back at 1.2 instead of 3 ;-/ [Comment: Report IP: Logged]

Rav0r Croydon 14:36 23/2/2003		On Graham (Obi's) PC, the lowest sens we could use was 6 or something, where as me and

		Graham both use like 1.2/1.5 at home, anything below 6 the mouse would skip and move in a fed up way, the admin dom put a new HD in with a cloned Setup, improved abit but still had to use a high sens. /excuse Thats the PC i used vs 313! and Graham had a tough time in the other games with it. 		kept taking it back to 0 when it should of been 1. I just got the admin to change it in the config and make it read only Exactly the same problem for me on the upstairs PC, didn't bother with an admin though as I just made sure I joined the match server asap. The area upstairs was much better in terms of temp./light etc than downstairs and some1 had been installing some microsoft mouse drivers on the PCs downstairs which made the sens weird, needed to be over doubled. In comparason to the WCG lan mucccccch better lan, went without a hitch as far as I could tell. Apart from some1 stealing my mousemat (:[]) and the 3 hour wait between the iM and 4K game it was a v.good event. [Comment: Report IP: Logged]
	DoZ Anti-saviour of UKT 16:07 23/2/2003	Having the large waits by letting people play 2 games in a row is actually a good idea, it cuts right down on installation and setup times. 	emfive 16:12 23/2/2003	Definatly, swapping after each game would of been stupid.
